Boosters For Hawaii

"I was in Seattle for ten days during the stay of the Bulletin-Hawaii girls in that city, and I want to tell you that nothing has ever been done to promote Hawaii that was more effective than the trip of those young ladies."

This statement was made this morning by C. W. Renear, who came into the Bulletin office and asked that his good word for the girls and their trip be registered.

"I was in the same hotel at Seattle where the girls stopped and I know that they were enthusiastically received by the best people of the city, and these people, through the girls, took a deep interest in the islands. The islands will profit a great deal by the tour of the young ladies. Business men who met them would talk about Hawaii and the ladies began to talk of Hawaii, always favorably."

"I met one business man of Nome who had met the party on the Alaska trip, and I never saw a man more enthusiastic than he was over the impression the young ladies had made and the interest in the islands they had aroused in the northern country."

"I am talking about what I know, for I was there. I like to see the islands boosted, and that's what those girls did everywhere they went."

The body of a Chinese was found this morning in a cabbage patch near Kunawai lane off Liliha street. It was decomposed and had evidently been lying there for several days. The police took charge of the remains and had them taken to the morgue, where upon a coroner's jury was empaneled to investigate the matter.
